Provide assistance with resources such as uniforms to reduce barriers for attendance

- Monthly mailings to parents to share activities and learning tools
- Grassroots activities reaching area businesses, daycares, UPK providers, faith-based organizations, and civic groups
- Regular opportunities (open house, tours, meetings, activities) for parents to meet school leadership and teachers and see the school
- Direct mail to targeted neighborhoods
- Meeting with parents in the community

- b. Process for Developing a New Strategic Plan – Judy Willard distributed information on the five steps it takes to develop a plan for a non-profit organization, and a proposed process and timetable. Judy Willard discussed the Plan for Improvement that Teresa Gerchman developed for the 2019-2020 school year. In addition to intense work on academics, Teresa Gerchman included and explained the following areas in her Plan for Improvement:
- Parent Teacher Connection has been formed to give parents a voice at the school,
 - Community Partnerships are needed, and will take a good deal of work to identify and develop, and
 - Student Absenteeism must be improved.

After considerable discussion on the urgency this year to raise academics, the Board tabled the discussion on the strategic planning until the September 11, 2019 Board meeting.

- c. Board Self Evaluation – The Board is making progress in achieving its strategic goals. New Board members have been added to the Board. A Committee is working with its Board Legal Counsel to help the Board better understand the legal documents. Improvements have been made with new Board member orientation, but still needs improvement. Management reporting has improved somewhat, containing more analysis along with information, but still needs improvement. The Board members would like to attend more events each year and participate in the classrooms. They agree that they are offered opportunities for professional development.

The greatest strengths of the Board are shared commitment to serve students and helping the school achieve its goals. The Board members believe they have a good working relationship with the school administration and with each other. The Board members come prepared for meetings and believe the meetings to be effective and efficient. They rate communication highly. The Board would like to have a more open relationship with teachers, deans, parents, and the community.

The biggest disappointment of the Board is that the academic scores have not gone up. During the current school year, the Board is looking to see increased positive scores as the curriculum has been reviewed, adjusted, and new programs have been instituted by Teresa Gerchman to reach charter goals.

- The Board brainstormed questions that SUNY may ask at the Board interview relative to the academic benchmarks. These included:
 - What specific steps are teachers taking to make sure they are adequately differentiating instruction? Are the deans and principal modeling this?
 - What is the level of rigor in the classroom, and how does the Board know? How does the Board know if the curriculum is rigorous?
 - What is iReady used for and what does the current data say?
 - What is the school doing to address the needs of at-risk students?
 - What does the enrollment data say about student retention? Why are students leaving and what is being done about it?

The Board then used a tool to examine each Benchmark in detail, including understanding the indicators that SUNY identified as areas of needed improvement. The Board discussed how it has improved in those specific areas, and to identify areas where there is still work to be done.
