Background 1: A Constant Search for Water

A Constant Search for Water

The book A Long Walk to Water tells two separate stories at the same time. Each chapter tells the story of a boy named Salva side-by-side with the story of a girl named Nya. Salva and Nya lived in Southern Sudan during different time periods. Salva lived in Southern Sudan in 1985, and Nya lived in Southern Sudan in 2008. This background lesson describes what was happening in Sudan when Nya lived there in 2008. In preparation for reading A Long Walk to Water, we are going to learn about the lack of water in Southern Sudan, because this relates to Nya's story. (You can see a map of Southern Sudan and other locations from the story on the title page of the book.)
(This text was written for this lesson.)

Guiding Question: What is the history of war in Sudan?

The current conflict in Sudan is only the latest chapter in the country's violent history. Apart from an 11-year peace from 1972 to 1983, Sudan has been entrenched in war since it became an independent nation in 1956.

The Darfurian conflict erupted just as a long civil war between northern and southern Sudan was winding down.

Glossary

Arab - a person from Arabia civilians - people who are not in the military civil war - a war between groups of people from the same country conflict - a fight or war
Darfurian conflict - fighting in 2003 between the government of Sudan and rebels in the Darfur region of western Sudan deadliest - causing the most deaths entrenched*2 - constantly involved erupted - happened suddenly flee - to run away or escape

[^1]

That war was fought between the mainly Muslim, Arab north and the mostly non-Muslim, non-Arab south. It began in 1983 and was one of the longest lasting and deadliest wars of the 20th century.

About two million civilians were killed, and more than four million people were forced to flee their homes.

Guiding Question: What happened to many boys in Sudan during the war?

Some of the refugees are known as the Lost Boys of Sudan. Fleeing violence and the fear of being forced into war, thousands of boys fled by foot to Ethiopia.

The 1,000-mile trek was grueling. They went days without food or water, eating leaves and berries and sucking liquid from mud to stay alive. Exhausted, some boys died of starvation or dehydration.

Background 3-Recent History of Sudan

(This text is new and was written by AIR for the ELL lesson.)
Guiding Question: What was the final result of the years of fighting in Sudan?

Although the civil war officially ended, fighting among groups continued after the peace agreement in 2005. There were several years of war and negotiation. Finally, the opposing groups accepted a plan for peacekeeping. The plan was coordinated by the African Union and the United Nations.

In January 2011, the South voted to separate and become the Republic of South Sudan. On July 9, 2011, the country was divided into two independent countries: Sudan and South Sudan.

The area in southern Sudan where Nya lived in 1985 and Salva lived in 2008 is now an independent country called South Sudan. Even in 2015, the violence continues and the people of South Sudan continue to search for survival.

Glossary
peace agreement - an understanding reached to stop the fighting or war

Background: Cesar Chávez: Embrace the Legacy

Cesar Chávez: Embrace the Legacy

César Chávez fought for the rights of farm workers in the United States. In 1984, César Chávez gave a speech to the Commonwealth Club of California. His speech described the difficulties that farm workers face in their fight for justice. In preparation for reading his speech, we will learn more about César Chávez by watching a video about him. Then, we will read a text from the video.
(The text below was transcribed for this lesson from the video:

Response to Guiding Question: What was Cesar Chávez' vision?

Guiding Question: What did Cesar Chávez fight for?

Chávez also fought for the legal right of farm workers to form their own union, a right enjoyed by other workers in the United States. He fought for the right to have clean drinking water in the fields. The right to have access to bathrooms. And the right to stop work and enjoy a simple lunch break. He fought for the right to a fair wage, the right to collect unemployment insurance and he fought for the right to send their children to proper schools to finish their education.
Cesar Chávez challenged the unjust normalcy of that not long ago past. He challenged what was then a commonplace injustice and in so doing changed the face of America.
